OVERVIEW

Razorthorn's CISO as a Service provides organisations with senior security leadership without the significant costs of employing a full-time Chief Information Security Officer.

CISOaaS enables any organisation to access high-level security expertise easily and cost effectively. We tailor our support to your organisation's specific needs, letting you concentrate on running your business while we ensure your security programme grows and matures.

Our specialists work with organisations across many industries, bringing practical knowledge and proven approaches to strengthen your security. We work alongside your team to build and maintain effective security practices that protect your business and meet your compliance requirements.

Through ongoing engagement, we develop a deep understanding of your business operations and security challenges. This enables us to provide strategic guidance while creating sustainable security practices that align with your business goals.

THE RAZORTHORN APPROACH

Initial Security Assessment

We conduct a thorough review of your current security posture, measuring it against industry standards and our proven security framework. This creates a clear picture of your security strengths and areas for development. Our assessment examines your technical controls, policies and security awareness across the organisation.

Customised Security Framework

Based on your business needs and risk profile, we develop a tailored set of security controls and policies. This framework aligns with your organisation's objectives while ensuring appropriate protection for your assets. We consider your industry requirements, compliance needs and operational constraints.

Strategic Roadmap

Using insights from our assessment, we create a practical implementation plan that prioritises actions based on risk levels and business impact. This roadmap provides clear milestones and deliverables to enhance your security maturity, with defined timelines and resource requirements.

Ongoing Partnership

We work alongside your team to implement security improvements, providing regular guidance and support. Our experts help transform your security approach from reactive to proactive, ensuring it aligns with your business strategy and meets regulatory requirements.

Continuous Improvement

Through regular reviews and updates, we adapt your security programme to address new threats and business changes, maintaining effective protection while supporting your organisation's growth. We provide detailed reports on progress and emerging risks, ensuring your security strategy evolves with your business needs.
